English: You Said, We Did.

You said the Dissertation is a challenge to write in two terms

We sought advice from External Examiners, and built in interim tasks and group meetings to create a better structure for successful completion

You often tell us the books you loved to study (and those you didn't!)

We are continually revising reading lists to ensure the books selected are as inspiring and moving as possible

You said the assessment weighting for some English Studies coursework was too low

We consulted with students and External Examiners, and increased the weighting in line with other modules
